Application for HPCA 2007 Student Travel Grant Application

A limited number of modest travel assistance grants are available through the National Science Foundation. These will be awarded only to students who have registered and are in attendance at HPCA 2007 in Phoenix, Arizona, and awards will be mailed to students following the event. This will be on a first come first serve basis. This covers only travel, no food or conference registration. The application deadline is January 30th 2007 and the applicants will be notified by February 2, 2007. Additional information is requested to determine the final awards:

To qualify a recipient must be:

- author of an accepted conference paper, attend the conference, and present the paper.
- full-time regular student registered toward a degree in engineering or related field in a US university.
